

Open the document that has the opening of a novel called 'The Island at the End of Everything' by Kiran Millwood Hargrave.

Before you start reading, have a look at the glossary and make sure you understand the meaning of the words that will come up in this story. You might need to go back the glossary while you are reading.

As you are reading, have a go at answering these questions:

True or False?

Culion sounds like a nice island.

The men who take you to the island are very compassionate.

The eagle is a sign of hope.

Find and copy a word or phrase that shows:

The men don't want to get ill.

You arrive on the island at night.

There's lots of fruit on the trees.

Main Question

What impression do you get of the island?

How does the author make the island sound like a positive place and a negative place?

Now your turn....

Based on The Island At The End Of Everything Extract

Choice of two:

1. Write a narrative/diary entry about being taken from your house to the island.
2. Write a story about someone trying to escape an island. This can be from whoever's perspective you please.

Make sure you magpie some of Kiran's description, or if you're feeling very creative, just allude to it. This will allow your reader to know it is part of the same story and island.
